APPROPRIATION CUT

Sundry Civic Bill Shows Taft Economy.

NEW PROJECTS FOR DISTRICT

Measure Provides $250,000 for Tariff Board to Investigate Cost of Production at Home and Abroad. Treasury Department to Be Modernized—Special Agents.

President Taft's orders for economy in government expenditures were followed by the Appropriations Committee of the House in framing the sundry civil bill, which, as reported yesterday, carries only a total of $11,849,270. This is nearly $18,000,000 less than the estimates called for, and is $25,000,000 less than the appropriation for the current year. To effect this reduction in expenditures some big slashes were made by the committee in pet projects throughout the country, Washington suffering with the rest of the United States.

A paragraph in the bill legalizes the tariff board, appropriates $250,000 for its maintenance, and authorizes the inquiry recommended by the President into the question of the cost of production at home and abroad.

In addition to the regular routine appropriations for the support of the various branches of the government here, numerous new features of interest to the District are included in the measure.

Storehouse for Naval Militia.

One item is of $180,000, to modernize the interior of the Treasury Department building, which has long been in bad condition. For the construction of the new Bureau of Engraving and Printing building, authority is given for the closing of D street southwest between Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets. For labor and expenses of the bureau, including salaries other than for plate printers, the appropriation is cut to $1,061,333, a reduction of $18,617. The appropriation for salaries of plate printers is cut over $100,000, and for materials the appropriation is reduced $30,383.

A provision for the naval battalion of the District Militia, to cost $20,000, and to be built on ground owned by the United States, is provided for. The appropriation for National Museum fixtures is decreased from $200,000 to $125,000. The appropriation for the Zoo is $200,000, an increase of $10,000.

A big increase authorized is an appropriation of $50,000 for the employment of special agents by the Interstate Commerce Commission, $25,000 more than the current appropriation.

Potomac Park receives $15,000, an increase of $4,000, while an additional $25,000 is given for the improvement of that park.

YESTERDAY IN CONGRESS.

(MAY 6, 1910.)

SENATE.

The Senate held a brief session yesterday, a number of bills on the calendar being passed, among them the following: Senator Perkins' bill establishing the grades of acting assistant paymaster in the navy and acting second lieutenant in the Marine Corps.

Another bill by Senator Perkins providing that when a naval officer shall fall in an examination for promotion he shall be retired at the rank to which he is entitled by seniority.

Pending voluntary nurses in the civil war at $12 a month.

Resolving vessels leading or unloading in any port at night to procure a license and to give bond, the bill to divide the lands and funds of the Crow Indians in Montana was passed.

The Senate, at 2:30 p. m., adjourned until Monday at noon.

HOUSE.

The railroad bill was completed in Committee of the Whole in the House yesterday being passed, 241 yeas, 170 nays, and 13 abstentions.

An effort to eliminate sections 12 and 14 failed. An agreement was reached to vote on the bill on Tuesday next immediately after the reading of the sundry civil bill in question.

The House adjourned at 6:28 p. m. until today at noon.

TELEPOST SEEKS INLET.

Senate Committee Grants Hearing to Augusta (Me.) Corporation.

There was a hearing before the Senate District Committee yesterday on the bill, which passed the House on March 14, authorizing the Telepost Company, of Augusta, Me., to enter the District with its lines and to establish a plant and a transit business here. The company is organized to do a general telegraph business. The bill authorizes the company to use the lines, poles, or conduits of other companies having franchises in the District upon a basis of mutual arrangements.

Mr. Lee Sellers, president of the company, submitted an argument in support of the bill to the committee. He said that the concern had secured a right of way almost from New York to a point just inside the District. Until the bill is passed, however, the company cannot cross a street in the District. Mr. Sellers denied that the company desired the franchise in the District for the purpose of selling stock. He submitted a schedule of proposed charges for service.

The committee will report on the bill tomorrow.

TAFT NOW AFTER INSURGENT VOTES

essential majority, requiring 47 votes, his plans for carrying the railroad bill through are by no means as certain as might seem. He can win easily on some propositions, such as the long and short haul clause, against which he now has 55 votes, but on other matters it is an open question. Accordingly, the future will be more or less perilous for the bill, even if President Taft wins two or three recruits to Senator Crane's standard.

The uncertainty is emphasized by the overtures the regular Republicans have been making to the insurgents for eliminating sections 12, 14, and 15, which have to do with the regulation of railroad securities. The insurgents, however, say those provisions shall not be eliminated until there has been ample discussion.

The regulars propose that the insurgents shall take the responsibility for defeating or even for modifying the administration's railroad bill. The insurgents retort that there will first be a debate, in which the country will be made to understand what character of provisions are being defeated. As there is no culture in the Senate, the insurgents will probably be able to make good their threats.

Will Take Vote Tuesday.

The struggle will be on again in earnest early next week. The House yesterday virtually completed the railroad bill, so that practically nothing remains but to take the vote after the reading of the journal next Tuesday. Then, if the President can drive the railroad bill through the Senate in some form, the effort to have it framed in some fashion in conference can be undertaken. There is no certainty yet that the President will try to get the bill out of conference. That is one of the questions yet to be decided, and the developments of the next seven days will have great weight in determining whether it will be worth while.

It was a battle-scarred bill which emerged from the Committee of the Whole in the House at 6:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon after a day of struggle on the part of the insurgents and Democrats to amend it. The most important accomplishment of the day was the striking out of the entire section 12, while to section 14 two important committee amendments were added.

Section 14 Saved.

Representative Washburn, of Massachusetts, opposed section 14. He said this section was designed to permit railroads in the hands of receivers to reorganize. He aroused applause on the Democratic side when he said that he would unite in an effort to have the section stricken from the bill. Four amendments offered to the section by Mr. Washburn, intended, he said, to make it "workable," were not agreed to.

On motion of Representative Lenoir to strike out the section, the radicals failed—ayes, 58; noes, 73—to eliminate the section. This was the result largely of Democratic absenteeism.

A motion by Representative Adamson to strike out section 15 was also lost. Mr. Adamson, after the bill had been completed in Committee of the Whole, announced that when it was taken up in the House he would endeavor to get a separate vote on the Commerce Court provision by offering a motion to recommit the bill, with instructions to strike out this section.

Material Changes Made.

The Commerce Court provision, the real heart of the bill, which is termed officially "a bill to create a commerce court," was saved recently in Committee of the Whole by a tie vote. There is doubt whether the provision can be kept in the bill on a roll call.

By agreement between Chairman Mann and Minority Leader Clark, Tuesday afternoon was decided upon for taking a vote on the bill.

The bill has been materially changed from the form in which it was reported from committee. Sections 7 and 12 have been stricken out. A section requiring the physical valuation of the railroads has been added, and a clause inserted designating telegraph and telephone lines as common carriers under the terms of the act, and bringing them under its provisions.

Will Fight Tariff Board.

It is certain that the proposed appropriation of $250,000 for the tariff board will be opposed by the entire minority side of the House.

"We will fight that provision to a finish," said Representative Underwood, of Alabama, one of the Democratic leaders, yesterday. "We are heartily in favor of a straight tariff commission to obtain the facts about the cost of production in foreign countries and other important details relating to the tariff. But we will never consent to the establishment of a board to gather this information for the sole benefit of the Executive."

Parole Bill Reported.

The bill for the parole of Federal prisoners was reported yesterday by the House Committee on Judiciary. It provides that a Federal prisoner may be paroled after he has served one-third of his sentence.

The provisions of the bill do not apply to prisoners sentenced for treason, murder, arson, or other capital crimes, or to persons twice convicted of a felony.

Young Gould May Marry.

New York, May 6.—It is reported here this morning that the engagement of Jay Gould, the second son of George J. Gould, and Miss Beatrice Godfrey Van Brunt will soon be announced. They are said to have met in Paris last spring while Miss Van Brunt was in school there. Gould is twenty-one years old.

Killed by Falling Tree.

Special to The Washington Herald, Staunton, Va., May 6.—Floyd Sipple, aged forty-five years, was pinned under a falling tree near this city to-day and instantly killed. He was cutting the tree and it fell across his body. He leaves a wife and four children.

URGE CHANGE IN RULES.

Insurgents Advocate Further Liberalization of House Methods.

Three determined Republican insurgents walked into the room of the Committee on Rules yesterday, told the committee that they wanted changes in the rules, and then walked out again, uncertain as to whether they had made any impression upon the ten members who pass upon bills bearing on the conduct and management of the House.

Representatives Fish and Parsons, of New York, and Hayes, of California, were the insurgents who told their troubles to the Rules Committee. From all accounts they got a chilly reception. Representative Fish wanted the committee to change the rules so as to enable the author of a bill to start procedure whereby a committee having jurisdiction should be discharged from further consideration where it refused or failed to act.

Representatives Parsons and Hayes wanted to facilitate legislation by being able to close debate in committee of the whole.

"The vote on the Norris resolution meant a liberalization of the rules of the House and not a mere change in the personnel of this committee," said Representative Fish, addressing the committee.

"This is the only legislative body in the world where there is no provision for the discharge of a committee from the consideration of a bill. Any committee in the House can smother legislation and the House cannot help itself. Why, the President of the United States has been trying for sixty days to get the postal savings banks bill out of the Committee on Post-offices and Post Roads, but without result."

The committee adjourned without taking action.

PRINCE TAO THANKS TAFT.

Sends Parting Declaration of His Friendship for United States.

On his arrival at the White House yesterday President Taft received the parting declaration of friendship from Prince Tsal Tao, uncle of the boy Emperor of China. Here is the telegram:

"New York, May 5, 1910. 'Mr. President: As I am bidding farewell to the American shores, I desire to thank you with all my heart for the magnificent reception given me by the government and people of the United States in every place that I have visited. I shall carry away with me to my own country all the pleasant memories of my brief stay in the United States. Long may Heaven bless you with health and happiness.'"
